THE ART
OF

Jessie Montes

Jessie Montes created his art entirely out of cardboard. Recycled boxes to be exact. Being a man of limited financial means this medium was perfect, it was plentiful and free! His first ventures in cardboard art were picture frames for his personal photos. Eventually, he began to fill the frames with his own cardboard creations. Jessie found cutting the cardboard at different angles produced different textures and colorations. These variations allowed Jessie to implement different visual effects adding interesting facets to his work. Finding the need for more color, Jessie incorporated acrylic paint into many of his creations. Montes' Mexican heritage and love for his adopted America really shine in this exhibition. Colors and designs are notably drawn from his Mexican roots, but subject matter tells viewers Montes deeply appreciated and respected the leadership and opportunities he found as an American citizen. These works are the epitome of creativity; they are exquisitely crafted and brilliantly artistic.

HIGH SCHOOL 41ST ANNUAL art show

Since 1976, the Dane G. Hansen Museum has proudly hosted the High School Art Show. The Museum hosts this show in hopes of aiding dedicated art instructors in fostering a love and appreciation for art in their students. It is truly our pleasure to provide these students with a professional gallery to showcase their art work. The exhibition will consist of a variety of art forms and be displayed by school. This year, the Museum invited each instructor to display a piece or two of their own art with their students' work. A special preview is scheduled for February 11th at 2:00 p.m. Don't miss the opportunity to come encourage these young artists.
